"Just now there are many disconcerting factors in the world. Our economic system has been turned upside down. Things that people once esteemed have passed beyond their grasp with little hope of regaining them. Political conditions at home and abroad are disturbing. Vice and crime seem to have passed beyond the bounds of control. In general there has been a breakdown of reverence for things that the past has held sacred. Learning has become so secularized that spiritual things have little place in its program and among educators materialism and skepticism have found a secure dwelling place. Consequently the group that was once a stabilizing factor in society is but adding to its unrest and discontent. Does this mean that the old anchorages have been swept away or are they simply submerged beneath the rubbish of a decadent materialism that has come to fruition and is now yielding its harvest? In the midst of all this confusion there is one hopeful factor—God still lives and retains his sovereignty. He has not lost His power, nor has the situation passed beyond His control. Those who have faith to judge the future by the past will find that the road to recovery lies in the direction of God, and every teacher and student in every Christian College in every land of the world owes an obligation to Him, to themselves, and to the generation which they expect to serve, to build on that hope."

HAROLD STAUFFER BENDER, M.A., B.D., Th.M.
Dean, Head of the Bible Department

"It is commonplace to say that the most important thing about a college is not its campus, its physical equipment, its endowment, nor even its faculty, but the living spirit which animates and infuses the entire institution. But this commonplace was never more true than today. It is not that the material aspects of the college have ceased to be important, for they are in some respects more important in this time of depression than they were in days of prosperity. But as material values break down before our eyes and over and over again demonstrate their impotence in the face of the gravest problems of our time, whether in affairs of state, church, business, or personal life, we turn again to the only real power in man, his spiritual resources, and to the only eternal, satisfying values, the spiritual values. Under such circumstances, the spirit of a college stands out pre-eminently as the true source of its life, and the only guarantee of its continuance. And so we of Goshen College, faculty, students, and friends, understand today better than ever why Goshen College lives and grows, though with slender financial resources, and we are profoundly grateful for the spirit of devotion to Christian ideals of truth and service which created, has maintained, and will continue to maintain our Alma Mater. We are deeply stirred in heart to know that this spirit glows more powerfully today than ever before."

D. A. LEHMAN, M.A.
Mathematics and Astronomy

"Beautiful is the life abounding in the Christian graces—Faith, Hope and Love; and, as in mathematics, gives a square deal and keeps a straight story."

SILAS HERTZLER, Ph.D.
Registrar, Director of Teacher Training
Education and Psychology

"May we so live that we may lead our students to accept with conviction, the spiritual, Christian attitudes and ideals taught by our Master."

SAMUEL W. WITMER, M.A.
Biological Sciences

"The fundamental principles leading to truth are, I believe, very much the same in all fields of worthy human endeavor."

JOHN SYLVANUS UMBLE, M.A.
English

"A Book, a Friend,
A Loaf, a Cup,
An earnest Task,
A Couch, a Prayer,
A victor's Song,
At Eveningtime.

GUSTAV H. ENSS, Th.M.
Philosophy, Bible, and German

"The religious quest finds its answer in the gospel of Jesus Christ. The quest is human; the answer, divine."

WILLARD HARVEY SMITH, M.A.
Dean of Men
History and Political Science

"In all the varied circumstances and phases of life, seek the truth, for the truth shall make you free."

GLEN R. MILLER, Ph.D.

CLASS OF '33

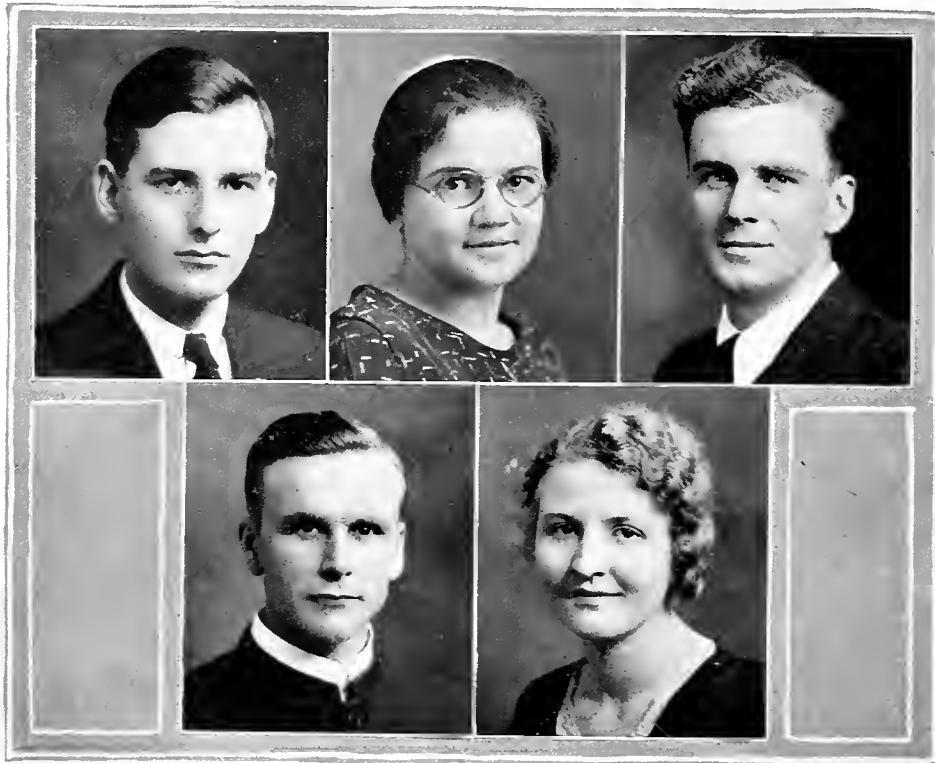

Winding slowly across the beaten plain, comes a long line of dust-covered wagons. Many such lines had followed the dusty, narrow trail. Now comes the last lap of a four years' journey with man and beast physically tired, yet spiritually eager to press on, knowing that the goal has been nearly reached.

In the fall of '29 when ninety, under the leadership of James Steiner, started on this trail across mountains, plains and rivers unknown, the company was self confident, gay and carefree. After a summer's rest, when the wagon train was ready to resume the journey, the new leader, Glenwood Schertz, had fewer wagons, as many remained at the resting place, while others joined different wagon companies. But the prevailing spirit was the same. Dangers were now not as easily overcome, yet the travellers looked ahead to the next train.

On the third stretch the company, with their new leader, Ross Gerber, now being established in their roving life, were able to aid a new wagon train, the Freshmen. New strength prevailed and victories were numerous, with many rewards and places of honor. The days for rest and pleasure, though not so numerous, were well spent, as the records in the old chest of the leader's wagon prove.

And now in the last lap the company is not the same,—some having been left behind, others having joined, yet the same slogan, "Truth, loyalty and service", has spurred the brave hearts on. The land toward which they have travelled is dimly seen in the distance. Indian raids, animal foes, tricky traders, friendly campfires, and the special day of rest for friendship's sake, are just memories. Soon each wagon will go its own way, each achieving new honors for itself, each carrying abroad the aims, hopes, ambitions, and ideals gained in four long years of mutual striving and learning.

JUNIORS

Leland Brenneman ----- Chief Guide
John C. Wenger ----- Assistant Scout
Vera Snyder ----- Keeper of the Log
John Williams ----- "Caravan Repairs" Man

After the scattering of our band by the Indian Chief, "Summer Months", and his warriors in the summer of '32, our ranks showed thin in places. When we met in September to reorganize our caravan, to have roll call, and to enlist new members, we found ourselves to be twenty-two strong but with only thirteen of our original members in the group. Some of our former fellow-travelers had joined other caravans, some had returned home, and some had found a place of active service by the wayside.

A red and white banner, bearing the motto, "Non scholae sed vitae discimus", was entrusted to our guide, Leland Brenneman, and to John Wenger, as assistant scout. Then it was "On to Knowledge! Westward-ho!"

We were a much more serious and earnest group of travelers than we had been during the previous miles, and we perseveringly mastered the vast stretches of Outside Reading Plains, the tortuous climb of Examination Mountains and the flood-swollen torrents of Hard Study. With the exception of lending a shoulder to the wheels of the Freshman Caravan as it began its journey, we had no diversion from our Knowledge Trek until in February we paused one evening in Dining Hall Oasis and had a hearty taffy-pull.

We thoroughly enjoyed preparing a reception for the weary and dusty Senior Caravan at the end of its long journey.

Now we're ready for the last long stretch of miles, and we'll journey forward with our motto waving victoriously from the covered wagon of our head scout. On with the red and white!

Two years have we been following the rugged trail across the Prairie of Knowledge. One autumn day in nineteen-hundred and thirty-one a large band of us, fifty-three in fort, clambered aboard our prairie schooner, the Class of Nineteen-hundred-and-thirty-five, to follow the lure of knowledge as our fathers followed the lure of adventure across the western plains. Having chosen Marvin Hostetler as our leader and Professor Smith as our guide, we joined three other covered wagons, and followed closely so we might have better protection from the dangers which lurked among the rocks and hills along our way. During the hot days we toiled ahead, and in the long evenings we rested around our campfires, or sometimes had entertainments and gala occasions. So the first year passed, and we halted at the town Vacation for a bit.

Some of our fellow pioneers left us while we tarried at Vacation, and in turn, a few joined our band, so with high hopes and courage we began the second long march forward, retaining our same leader and guide. The going was much more difficult now; roads were rocky and steep. One day in September we stole away and had a party by an old deserted mill.

The men and women of our group formed basketball teams. They fought valiantly and well, frequently defeating representatives from other camps. The women's team especially distinguished themselves. Our debaters, too, won many laurels not only in our own wagon train, but also in contests with other wagon trains crossing the plains on other trails.

At one water hole we paused awhile to greet old friends and comrades who had gathered there. After they had gone we pushed forward rapidly, halting once to visit an old haunted house where we spent an eerie evening.

Undaunted by past dangers, and trusting in our motto, "Knowledge is Power", we shall follow ever the lure of the forward-winding trail.

With a vigorous snap of the whip, we "thirty-sixers" were off on a gold rush. A prize it was indeed that we found. You will stand convinced. Votes were cast previously for our guide and leader, Professor Enss and Carl Kreider, respectively.

It was an unusual caravan for some seventy members enlisted—and such a variety included! Literary lights, lovers of music, sure-footed debaters and athletes, accompanied by a host of loyal supporters!

The beginning brought with it a certain sense of speculation, and in addition, a long, rough trail. There were times when these prairie schooners took perilous dives over unknown cliffs. Water-holes were scarce and some even empty! It was not an easy task to overcome these disappointments, but an oasis which we discovered at last in the distance promised new enthusiasm.

Each day was accounted for, every sunrise and sunset held new experiences, and our association together proved to be a bit of spice. Our tiring tramp was often interrupted by a rest, and during those moments the great creakings of the Conestogas ceased and the dust of the road was forsaken.

Narrow trails seemed to widen and fill with opportunity in our further pursuits. No loiterers were there,—for had there been, they could not possibly have lived through that toilsome journey alone. Those deserts spelled privation.

Through the entire march, our motto has been, "Conquer, and to Conquer", and our equation runs thus:

ELEMENTARY EDUCATION

Goshen College always has conducted a teacher training department, but in the last few years the emphasis was placed on the training of teachers for the secondary schools. Recently there was a felt need to conduct the training of teachers for the elementary schools in a division apart from the secondary field. Accordingly, in the opening of the school year have accredited our work in full.

1932-33 is the first year that supervised student elementary teaching was conducted off the campus. Arrangements were made whereby our prospective graduates of the regular school year were able to receive this training in the elementary schools of Goshen and adjoining districts. Last summer for the first time, a "Model School" was organized and conducted on the campus; this arrangement was especially planned to serve our Summer Term student teachers. This procedure will be continued as a regular feature of the Summer Session.

A backward glance on the progress of this division of teacher training since its organization three years ago, reveals that it is one of the most promising phases of the college program. Almost one-half of the graduates of Goshen College for the present year will graduate from this division. With such an encouraging past, we feel that this division of the College will continue its growth and remain a very much needed and worthwhile department.

Special Bible Term

On Tuesday, January 2, twenty-nine students enrolled for the Special Bible Term work which closed with Christian Life Conference Sunday, February 5. I. W. Royer and D. A. Yoder were in charge of the work.

The courses that were offered covered such a large part of the Bible that thirty-two books were read for the work. With D. A. Yoder as instructor, the students studied Old Testament History, the history of the Children of Israel from the time of Joshua to the captivity, and the Minor Prophets. I. W. Royer taught the New Testament courses: Acts, Mark, I Corinthians, Galatians, Ephesians, Philippians, and Colossians. Bible Doctrines was taught by President Yoder, Public Speaking by Mrs. Glenn Miller, and Music by Walter Yoder. Sunday School Methods was a lecture course in which J. S. Hartzler, J. K. Bixler, I. W. Royer, and C. W. Long each gave a week's lectures.

During the present school year, as in the past years, the Goshen College Alumni Association has contributed largely to the morale of the institution. This has been done in several specific ways. During the three or four times of the year when special occasions presented themselves the alumni have come in large numbers to lend their encouragement to the college by their personal presence. At the June commencement and alumni banquet, and at the August reunion and basket dinner, the attendance and spirit of fellowship were such that none but the most uninterested could fail to feel the glow of warmth and friendship manifest in the hearts of all.

There are the two other seasons of each year when the presence of many alumni is a source of inspiration to those of us who stand by and hold the fort. The homecoming during the Thanksgiving season is a more or less new institution, but has the virility which makes for success and permanency. Large numbers also are present each year at the Ministers' Week and Christian Life Conference following the Short Bible term.

The new plan for membership in the association by means of which anyone who has attended the institution for one year, which has been under discussion for several years, was formally adopted at the June 1932 business meeting. This brings to the association the more active support of a long list of former students who are just as vitally interested in its welfare as are those of us who have been members in the past. These new members are most heartily welcomed and are invited to participate in all the activities of the association.

Particularly during the past two years of financial uncertainty the alumni have loyally supported the college, and their generous donations have been greatly appreciated.

The Y. M. C. A. at Goshen College is an organization having as its highest purpose the fostering of Christian activities and the building up of a genuine Christian atmosphere among the students. Realizing that the student needs activity in order to keep his Christian life vital and to experience deeper and richer Christian experiences, the Y. M. C. A. puts forth its best efforts to meet these needs. If the Y. M. C. A. can in any way help to prepare young men for active service in the church, certainly this organization should be considered of major importance. Prayer meetings, Devotional meetings, and Bible and Mission study classes are sponsored. Valuable experience is obtained by taking part in Young People's Meeting programs given in surrounding churches, in jail services and other meetings. Social activities of a wholesome nature are also fostered. In a word, it is the aim of the Y. M. C. A. to help the faculty of the College build Christian character.

The Young Women's Christian Association desires through its activities to effect in every student of Goshen College the birth, the growth, and the full flowering of a rich Christian life. Long ago the organization expressed this in the motto, "To know Christ, and to make Him known". To as nearly as possible attain this goal, it invites into its membership every woman who is a member of a Christian evangelical church and who expresses a desire to contribute of her best in seeking the realization of the Association's objective. Opportunities "to know Christ" are brought before the student body in the form of regular Mission and Bible Study classes, Devotional and Prayer meetings. The Extension Committee endeavors "to make Him known" by carrying His message to other places. Since this organization includes as active members a greater proportion of the women than any other, it also sponsors numerous social gatherings and programs, tries to assist students in finding employment, and remembers those who are ill or bereaved. It aspires to truly serve Goshen College.

Le Cercle Francais

John Coffman	President
Lucille Kreider	Vice-President
Rose Adams	Secretary
John B. Hartzler	Treasurer

The French language, unlike Latin or Greek, is a living language. The mastery of the language can best be attained under actual conditions of life. To bridge the gap between the classrooms and life is the aim and work of Le Cercle Francais. It attempts to bring the student into a full use of the language in active association with others. This affords practice in using the language as well as an incentive to learn. It is also a means whereby the more advanced students may encourage and assist the beginners. Moreover, it unites those interested in the language, and, in the cooperative effort of all, aids can be obtained which increase the values of the studies for all.

Le Cercle Francais meets once each month. A part of the meeting is devoted to transactions of business, following which, a program of songs, recitations, speeches, or original sketches, is given, the meeting ending in playing a number of characteristically French games. One public program was given by the society at Christmas time, when the members depicted a scene from French family life. A concert by John Thut, tenor, a Goshen College alumnus, and instructor in the Chicago Conservatory of Music, was sponsored by the club in April. The proceeds of the concert were devoted to the purchasing of French books for the library and other equipment for the French department of the College.

Der Deutsche Verein

Der Deutsche Verein of Goshen College opened its year in the home of Prof. and Mrs. Enss on October 12, 1932. At this meeting many students expressed their desire to become members. The Verein decided to sponsor a public program of an entirely musical nature, and Prof. Enss taught the Verein two songs and led a number of rounds. On Monday evening, December 12, Madeline Sack, violinist; Herman Sack, accompanist; Robert Welty and Donald Overholt were presented by the Club in a public recital. The proceeds from this program were used in purchasing eight German songbooks for the German Department and the Club. At the "Weihnachtsfeier" on December 20, the Verein found the new song books under the "Tannenbaum" and immediately used them in singing "Weihnachtslieder". Mrs. Bender read the Christmas story from the Book of Luke, and while candy, nuts and apples were being eaten, Prof. Enss told about the "Tannenbaum". The dialogue "Uebung Macht den Meister" was presented on March 8th. At this time, also the first year German students were taken into the society. On March 24th, Friday evening in Chapel Hall, Prof. Enss gave a lecture on "German Folk Songs".

The Student Council

Levi Hartzler ----- President
John B. Hartzler ----- Vice-President
Verna Smith ----- Secretary

Among the numerous organizations on the campus the Student Council holds an inconspicuous position. In spite of this fact its influence is felt in many phases of campus life. It was organized in order to give the student body an opportunity to cooperate with the faculty in maintaining and developing the best standards of college life and work. Representatives to the Council are appointed by the various classes and by the presidents of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

As an organization representing the student body, the Council carries on its activities in an indirect manner, depending solely upon the cooperation of the students to help make these activities successful. Nevertheless its work is of vital importance. It sponsored a "Courtesy Week" program just before Home-Coming. The purpose of this project was to bring to the minds of the student body their individual responsibility toward others in the class rooms, halls, reading room, dining hall and in all forms of athletics. These opportunities for courtesy were presented in a short chapel program, an after-dinner program and by means of posters.

Dormitory Council

John Coffman, Chairman
Leland Brenneman Orie Miller
Menno Miller H. Clair Amstutz

The principles of democracy were applied to the group of men residing in Coffman Hall late in November when the members of the Dormitory Council were elected at a house meeting. Since that time, many problems which have arisen in connection with dormitory life have been satisfactorily solved by wise council and united effort.

By the authority of the Council, an auction sale was held in the fall, in which an accumulation of unclaimed articles was disposed of, thereby supplying a fund from which necessary medical supplies were purchased to be kept on hand for use. When this fund ran short, the council met the emergency by calling a house meeting which authorized a levy of a small sum of money from each man.

Several house meetings were called by the council to enable the Dean of Men to discuss matters relative to the welfare of the men.

Christian Workers Band

H. Clair Amstutz ----- President
Verna Enns ----- Secretary

An upward look is a good beginning for any day; but there is a special feeling of God's nearness that makes itself felt as we worship together in these early meetings before breakfast on Sunday morning. We are conscious of a deeper interest in our fellow men that increases as we discuss our work for the Master.

The meetings throughout the year have been both inspirational and practical. The programs have been marked by unity of purpose and continuity of thought. The theme has been that of "Personal Evangelism." The different phases of this subject that were given special consideration were: "Necessity of Personal Work", "Qualifications of the Personal Worker", "Steps in Saving Souls", "Christ's Method", "Hindrances", "Excuses", "Overcoming Intellectual Difficulties", "Rewards of Personal Workers".

—Irene Eschliman.

Foreign Volunteer Band

Orie Miller ----- President
Sarah Esch ----- Secretary

This band is composed of two groups of members, regular and associate. The former are those who have upon conviction definitely decided to do foreign work subject to further leading. The latter are those who are interested in mission work, but as yet have not been called.

Since those who go to the field enter immediately into unfamiliar surroundings it is urgent that they have a knowledge of the needs and qualifications that they may best prepare in order to do the most effective work. By sending letters of inquiry to the missionaries on the field much valuable information has been secured. Also, talks by returned missionaries on the needs and present day conditions have contributed much to this end.

Occasional inspirational messages were enjoyed by the members of the Band. These were given by men who had observed and studied the missionary work over a period of years and one was given by a missionary who was about to enter the field for the first time.

"Other sheep I have, which are not of this fold", "Go ye therefore . ." These are words of Christ that have not lost their significance.

The Home Economics Club of Goshen College met on October 6, 1932 at the home of Miss Florence Bender to make plans for the year's work. Miss Bender, instructor in the Home Economics department was chosen as our sponsor. Among the interesting and inspiring talks given was a "Brief Survey of the Past and Future of the Home Economics Club" by Miss Bender. At the other meetings we studied lives and purposes of Home Economic leaders of the past. At one of the first meetings we decided on our major project for the year; which was to decorate and furnish the Girls' Locker Room in the Science Hall. During the first semester and especially after public lectures the club served refreshments which they had prepared. The proceeds were used in carrying out the major project and furnishing the department with subscriptions to two magazines: The American Cookery and Practical Home Economics. The aim of this club is to develop a professional spirit among the members and to keep in touch with current topics of the Home Economics world.

Audubon Society

Omar J. Rhodes-----	Vice-President

Mary Jones-----	Treasurer

With the first signs of spring we look forward to bird hikes at sunset or an early morning outing in search of our feathered friends who have again come to stay with us. It is with a great deal of anticipation that we await those times when we can get out in Nature to learn some of the interesting things that come to us with a study of the birds in their habitats. What is more enjoyable than an early morning trip to some woods to study God's handiwork and eat breakfast outdoors along with a delightful social time? This is what the Audubon Society sponsors.

Not only is this organization active in the Spring, but at the beginning of the school year an interest is created in bird study by trips to neighboring lakes with persons in charge who really know birds. During the winter an entertaining as well as instructive evening was spent in viewing slides of the various species of birds. The society then participated in games which gave further information.

Our aim is to interest people in birds, continually to add to our bird study material, and to encourage birds to come to our campus.

Intercollegiate Debating

The interclass debaters were ready to debate the question, "Resolved, That all banking functions in the United States should be regulated by the federal government, with deposits guaranteed," before the management learned that some Indiana colleges had changed to "taxation". After considerable delay Marion college and Taylor university decided to use the tax question. Eventually Goshen scheduled a home-and-home debate on the banking question with Huntington college, Huntington, Indiana, a Christian college of conservative ideals.

On Thursday evening, March 2, the college was host to the Huntington negative teams. The debate, held in Assembly Hall, was well attended. The Goshen affirmative showed the need of a change to federal regulation, then proposed a plan of guarantee of deposits. The negative admitted the need of a change, but advocated federal regulation of commercial banks only and a voluntary system for guarantee of deposits. The critic judge, Prof. Ben Stoner, gave the decision to the affirmative because the negative failed to prove their counter plan better than the plan proposed by the affirmative. Kreider's constructive speech and Krabill's rebuttal were outstanding. Following the debate, the social committee of the Y. P. C. A. served lunch to teams and coaches. On account of illness the return debate at Huntington was cancelled.

The college was represented in the annual invitational debate tournament at Manchester college, Friday and Saturday, February 24 and 25, by one affirmative and one negative team. Eighty-two teams representing thirty-two colleges and universities gathered on the Manchester campus from five different states: Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Indiana. The affirmative wranglers were successful in three of their four contests. After losing to Manchester college in the first round, they won decisions over Toledo university, Butler university, and Bowling Green Teachers' college. The negative with a considerably harder schedule, lost to Crane college, McKendree college, and Augustana university, and won from Manchester college and Vincennes college. Since all the members of this year's squad are freshmen and sophomores, they really made a very commendable showing.

—John S. Umble

The Interclass Debates

Interclass debating this year consisted of two debates between the Freshmen and Sophomore classes. The Freshmen affirmative team consisted of Levi Hartzler, captain, John Lehman and Lewis Powell, while Carl Kreider, captain, Rollin Krabill, and Raymond Troyer constituted the negative. The Sophomore affirmative was composed of Roy Umble, Paton Yoder and Marvin Hostetler, while Umble, Orie Schlatter and Robert Welty made up the negative, Umble debating both times because of an insufficient number on the Sophomore squad.

The question for debate was one adopted by a considerable number of mid-western colleges for the current season, namely; "Resolved, That all banking functions should be regulated by the federal government, with deposits guaranteed." Despite the rather complex issues presented in such a question, two interesting and instructive debates were offered.

In the first debate a number of vulnerable points were displayed on both sides, many of which were not taken advantage of by the opposition. The Freshmen, upholding the negative, argued against the practicability of federal regulation, apparently failing to understand our present dual system of banking and the fact that we already have federal regulation in the operation of our national banks. The affirmative, however, failed to see this weakness in the negative case. The judge, Professor Kendall of Concord High School, gave the decision to the affirmative.

In the second debate a better understanding of the essentials of the question was apparent. There was considerably more clashing of argument. The Sophomores, upholding the negative, succeeded in convincing the judge, Professor Shanklin of Goshen High School, that the affirmative position, especially the guarantee of bank deposits, is unsound in principle and has failed in practice.

Forensics

Aided by the intelligent enthusiasm of this year's instructor in Oral Expression, Mrs. Glen R. Miller (Pearl Klopfenstein, M.A.), forensics this year reached a new high-water mark. The local peace oratorical contest, held April 10, to select a contestant to represent the College in the state meet, brought out four contestants. The judges were unanimous in awarding first and second place to Carl Showalter, Freshmen of La Junta, Colorado, and to Paton Yoder, Sophomore, of Middlebury, Indiana, respectively. The honor of representing the College in the state contest was the only reward of the winner. No cash prizes were offered.

For the second time in the history of the intercollegiate peace movement the Indiana annual peace oratorical contest was held at Goshen College. An audience of four hundred gathered here on Friday evening, May 5, to see representatives from eight Indiana colleges compete for the prizes of fifty, thirty, and twenty dollars offered to the winners by the Misses Seabury of Bedford, Massachusetts. Contestants representing Wabash, Earlham, and Manchester won first, second, and third prize respectively. Goshen's representative made a creditable showing, being ranked third by one of the judges. The contest aroused much enthusiasm locally and promises to insure a large group of entrants into the local contest next year.

A pleasing innovation this year was the women's declamation contest sponsored by Mrs. Miller and the Avon literary society. The latter gave as a prize to the winner of first place one of the Maple Leaf artist's fine pencil drawings. Anna Hertzler, Hesston, Kansas, won the prize for her faultless rendition of "The Red Disc" by Mark Twain. Unusual interest was created by this contest and it is to be hoped that it may become a permanent feature.

As the Maple Leaf goes to press preparations for the annual discussion contest on May 19, are going rapidly forward. Four of the contestants are entering as an exercise in oral expression; two others have entered because they are interested in public speaking for its own sake. Instead of the three cash prizes usually offered in this contest the Aurora society is this year offering the winner a pen sketch done by our artist, Oliver Wendell Schenk.

John C. Wenger-----	Deputy Treasurer
Ernst Correll-----	Research Consultant

The Mennonite Historical Society unites faculty and students who are interested in Mennonite History in a practical program of activity which fosters interest in this field on the campus through occasional programs and addresses, and which contributes to historical scholarship by the maintenance of a Mennonite Historical Library and the publication of monographs and treatises on Mennonite History. Through a peace committee, interest in Mennonite peace principles is also stimulated. The publications of the society include a series of volumes entitled; "Studies in Anabaptist and Mennonite History," and a quarterly periodical, "The Mennonite Quarterly Review," which it publishes as agent for the college. The manuscript of the fourth volume in the series of publications has been accepted for publication. It will appear in the summer of 1933, as a monograph on the immigration of the Russian Mennonites to North America in 1873, with Dr. George Leibbrandt as its author. It is stimulating to know that the interest in Mennonite History on the campus is growing. For the first time in more than ten years a regular class in Mennonite History was organized with an enrollment of 19. Each member of the class completed a project which involved work in the Mennonite Historical Library and the writing of an original paper, or assistance in cataloging the Library.

This association is composed of all members of the four literary societies. Its officers are elected from the society members and its finances are obtained by assessment of a certain percent of the year's fees paid into the literary societies.

It is the aim of this organization to help equip the library by the addition of new books. These books are selected from a list of suggested volumes by a book committee which is composed of a representative from each of the literary societies and a faculty member who acts as chairman of the committee. This year the association added 42 volumes to the library. Much credit is due our faculty director and chairman of the Book Committee, Prof. D. A. Lehman, whose interest and experience have been a great help to the association during the year.

The course this year consisted of five numbers, the first one being an entertainment by Chinquilla, a Cherokee Indian Princess. This was very well attended, and was an entertainment enjoyed by everyone. The second number was a lecture on "The Story of India's Culture", by Kewal Motwani, a native of India, who has studied a number of years in America. The third number was the outstanding one of the course. For our Home-Coming at Thanksgiving we were fortunate to be able to secure the Utica Jubilee Singers. The house was packed, and the audience was most highly pleased with the program given by these men. Dr. George Blakeslee, from Yerkes Observatory, gave us an illustrated lecture on "The Photography of the Heavens", for the fourth number. This was an intensely interesting lecture, and Dr. Blakeslee proved to be a most congenial and able speaker. The final lecture, also an illustrated lecture, was on "Abyssinia", given by Dr. Alfred M. Bailey, naturalist and explorer.

The Ski Club

Merle Hartzler -----	President
Rose Adams-----	Secretary

Skiing, the king of outdoor winter sports, has found its enthusiasts on our campus. Coming at the time of year when other outdoor sports are inappropriate, this sport offers the much needed opportunity to exercise in the invigorating air of winter. The Ski club truly enjoyed the trips to the Bristol hills after having spent most of the days in the confines of the class rooms.

Fun? Yes, indeed! What can compare to a swift descent of a snow-clad hill with the wind nipping at your nose and whipping past your body? And does anyone complain when he takes an awkward spill, filling pockets, sleeves, and ears with snow? No! He answers by trudging back up the hill for another skiing adventure!

The thirty members of this year's Ski club purchased for the club a number of pairs of skis and a second toboggan. With the help of Nature in providing several excellent snowfalls this winter, the Ski club's activities were very successful this season.

The Extension Sunday School

The Extension Sunday School was organized through the efforts of the Christian Workers Band as a means of expressing its spirit and purpose—not only to talk about things, but actually to do them. The Sunday School is now under the supervision of the local church.

Our Master said, "The poor ye have with you alway." There are sections of Goshen where there are many poverty-stricken homes. For these we are providing Christian instruction every Sunday morning by conducting a Sunday school in the East Goshen schoolhouse, and distributing Christian literature to interested folks. That there is real interest is evident from the fact that the schoolroom is crowded to the window ledges nearly every Sunday.

Some of the most needy families received Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets, the provisions coming from the local church and surrounding church communities. Many articles of clothing were also donated by kind friends. We are truly grateful for this interest and help.

Much thanks are also due the faithful workers who have been giving of their time and effort in a sacrificing manner; also those who have been donating the use of their cars to transport the children.

In order to better care for the needs of this community, steps are being taken to form a permanent organization. More than one hour of instruction a week is needed to motivate the young lives and to counteract the influence of the street.

We humbly ask that still others of our friends will take an interest in this project, that the Kingdom of God may truly find its way into these homes of the city.

—H. Clair Amstutz, Sup't.

Gospel Deputation Tours

An important committee of the Y. P. C. A. of Goshen college is the Extension committee which arranges for programs to be given at the various churches within easy driving distance of the college. But this year as a new feature extension groups were sent out during the vacations on rather extended tours in sections of the church which could not be reached at other times.

During the Christmas holidays two groups were sent out, one group of six men through Ohio and western Pennsylvania, and a group of five through Michigan. At Easter time a group of five men toured Ontario, Canada, also making stops at Clarence Center, New York, and Aurora, Ohio.

The programs given consisted of several talks on devotional or practical subjects pertaining to the Christian life, and special music.

These trips were made, first of all, by young men interested in the cause of Christ, and as Christian young men with a personal testimony of salvation in Christ, a desire to give this message to others was the motive back of our going. Hence our witness was none other than a witness of and for Christ.

Secondly, as representatives of Goshen college we endeavored to strengthen the bond of fellowship between the church and the college. At the same time we wished to promote a better understanding on the part of our hearers of the religious life and spirit which exists on Goshen College campus.

We appreciate the kindness and hospitality everywhere shown to us as well as the friendship and fellowship which we enjoyed.

Goshen college has a carefully planned system of intramural athletics. This system has undergone years of development. This year we have made a new record in successfully providing activities for every student.

Besides the physical education classes, an attempt is made to interest all students in as many activities as possible. The principal sports are baseball, basketball, track and tennis.

Keen interest arises from inter-society, inter-class and varsity competition.

This program is sponsored by the men's and women's athletic associations, and by the directors of athletics.

Men's Basketball

Basketball, classed as a major sport in the athletic program at Goshen College, holds the most interest and gives place to the greatest number of participants. In the program of interclass games in both the round robin and elimination tournaments the Freshmen led the field because of their height and ability, but found dangerous rivals among the upper-classmen. The inter-society games were still more closely contested, but the Adelphians won both games by a narrow margin. As a whole, the 32-33 season was very successful in the recreation program.

Women's Basketball

The basketball games played by the women of the college were most interesting and exciting, the teams being unusually evenly matched. The Juniors and Seniors combined into one team, the Freshmen were divided into two teams, and the Sophomores, with the addition of two players, formed a fourth team. The games which aroused the most interest were the Freshmen A vs. Sophomores. After two overtimes, the Freshmen A took the first game. The second was taken on a close margin by the Sophomores. A third game was scheduled to play off the tie, and finally the Sophomores captured the championship, but only by the usual very close margin. The Freshmen B and the Junior-Senior teams were also well matched.

—Basketball Chairman.

VESPERIAN AND AVON TEAMS

1933

Baseball

Kittenball, although classed as a minor sport, has many participants. The fifty men that signed up at the beginning of the season were divided into four groups. Each team was scheduled to meet every other team twice to complete the series of well-contested games. Hard baseball, the spring sport, was much enlivened with the coming of the spring term, when a number of old ball fans returned to the campus. Here the Auroras returned the defeat that the Adelphians gave them in the kittenball program. All the men taking part in these games received points toward letters or sweaters.

—Orie Miller.

Tennis

Tennis is the game for everybody at Goshen College. The College's five courts were cared for during the fall and thus were in excellent shape for early spring play.

The men's tennis activities consist of a perpetual tournament which is started in the fall and completed in the spring. The completion is effected when the first sixteen men on the list participate in an elimination tournament to decide the college championship. The 1933 tourney approaches with J. J. Miller, Paul George, and Ronald Overholt looming as the chief contenders. In addition to the tournament, an inter-society meet is held. The Adelphians, with the above-mentioned players, appear as likely repeaters of their last year's victory over the Auroras.

The women's tennis program is run essentially the same as the men's, a perpetual tournament culminated by an elimination tourney. Janet Miller, Rose Adams, and LaVerne Yoder, are the outstanding women tennis players on the campus.

—P. D. Zook.

Track

With the re-arrangement of the point system, more interest is shown in the track program. It is possible in this sport as in every other major sport to gather forty points toward a letter or sweater. With adequate field equipment as well as a good track, intense training has been carried on which is the ear-mark of a good meet. Judging from the material, the inter-society as well as inter-class meets will prove to be closely contested, and some past records will probably be bettered.

11. Princess Chinquilla, belonging to the Red Indian folk, gives a lecture on the life and customs of her people.

12. A strange mixing of day and night—"Sunshine" sees stars! We fear that he has received too much moisture.

15. The Senior branch of the college tree enjoys a corn and apple party on Myron Yoder's farm. The Sophomores, generally known as belonging to the clinging vine variety have a good time pulling taffy in the kitchen, but pull as they might in opposite directions they still cling together.

21. So that the local and transplanted plants might become better acquainted with each other, the evening is given over to the program and social of "Sisters All". The "Men's Mixer" is of the same growth as "Sisters All" but for the sake of identification it is given a different name.

THE MAPLE LEAF

23. Good evidence of the development of the chorus carnations is heard in Vespers.

26. It rains and we have "chicken-cock-tail" for supper. (Chicken is a plant with feathery leaves.)

26. To test the growth and development of the shrubs after six weeks of intellectual rain and sun, the mud is carefully loosened around the roots and examinations are poured in.

30. Since a change of soil is good for growing plants the students are invited to take dinner at the homes of resident church members.

NOVEMBER
Homing Harmony
(Music Theme)

2. The first note of this harmony is heard when the section of our orchestra known as the Freshmen, choose Carl Kreider as their director.

5. The Seniors put a presto in the prelude by participating in a birthday party at the home of Sarah Esch in Elkhart.

6-13. Allen Erb of La Junta, Colorado conducts evangelistic services.

11. After chapel President Yoder addresses the student body on "Looking at the War After Fourteen Years."

18. Bertie Baer attempts a bit of descending chromatics and for several days feels quite tremolo. The next selection of the suite is presented in the evening by the Avons and Auroras in harmony. Kenneth and Shirly Byler, accompanied by Ruth Taylor render one of the choicest programs of the school year.

21. By a succession of half steps and intervals, a large group of the students assist the library staff in transporting the library from the treble to the bass clef. Later in the evening, an auction of unclaimed articles is held in Coffman Hall.

23. Mrs. Lehman entertains the M. K. (Missionary kids), at a birthday dinner in honor of Carolyn. This concludes the prelude. (There has been a gradual crescendo up to the event of Homecoming.)

24. Thanksgiving service is conducted in the chapel at 11 o'clock by President Yoder. At 1:30, a series of vocal exercises of ohs and ahs take place over the turkey. The chorus renders a program of sacred and secular music at 8 o'clock.

25. The basketball games in the afternoon are decidedly energetic and fortissimo, but the Jubilee Singers in the evening sweep us off our feet.

26. In the afternoon, a social tea, and Saturday evening, the grand climax in the form of the Homecoming Social.

30.

"A double bar quite thick and long,
Denotes the ending of a song."

DECEMBER
Dishpan Dribbles
(Home Economics Theme)

2. There is a crash as the Freshmen men's debating glass breaks against the victorious one of the Sophomores.

3. A foreign dish is introduced at the Freshman party. All claim to like the hot, spicy, chop-suey. Even a few Juniors think it was good.

6. The Senior men sweep the Sophomores right off the floor in a good rousing basketball game.

7. Woolen goods and textiles in contrasting shades are the guests of the cold weather family.

12. Der Deutsche Verein program is well backed and seasoned with the violin music by Madeline Sack.

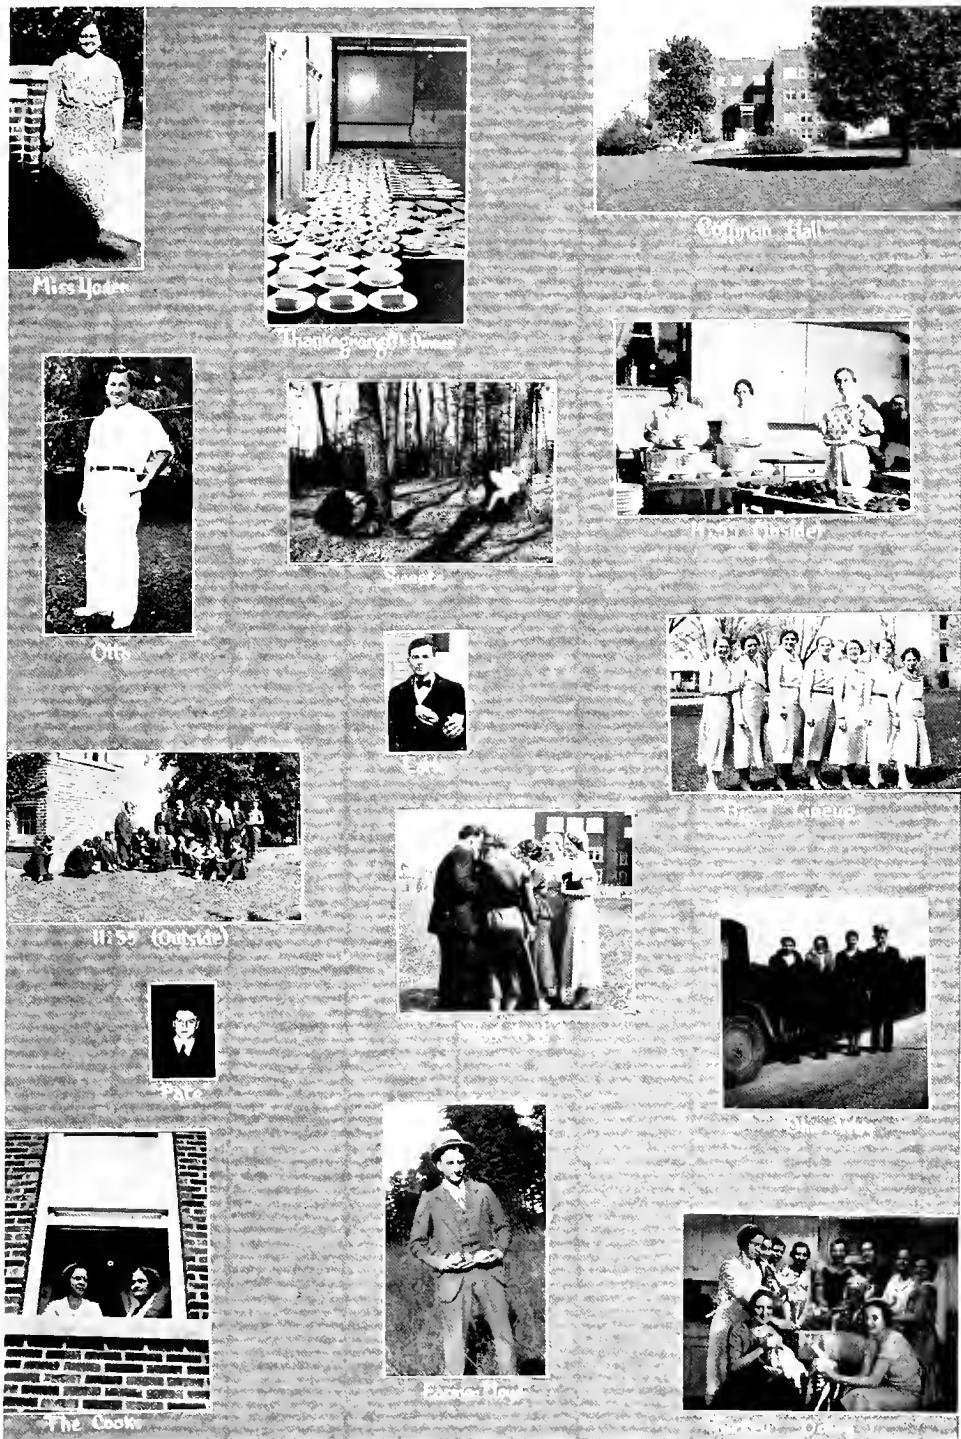

15. The buttons on Johnny's coat, which mark the time until vacation are slowly dropping off. He now sings "Seven more buttons till vacation."

16. The Avons dust a large score of baskets right in the Vesperian's faces during the inter-society basketball game and the Auroras are fried to a crisp before the Adelphians claim their victory.

17. The Kitchen Force family has an "at home" Christmas party. Leta Springer and John Steiner spend a large part of the night darning their stockings after going skating.

18. Bro. D. D. Miller officiated at the communion and baptismal services at the college church.

20. To balance up the number of calories before vacation, rabbit, which comes all the way from Colorado, is served for supper.

THE MAPLE LEAF

21. After chapel the Maple Leaf Staff carefully cuts a pattern which exactly fits the 1933 Maple Leaf. The last course served by the chorus before vacation is caroling-a-la-faculty.

JANUARY Athletic Air (Athletic Theme)

It always makes us laugh,
So interesting a treat,
To watch while Orie runs a mile
And only moves two feet.

2. Bible term begins. Short termers offer a good line-up representing six states.

3. The gates of vacation closed behind us with a bang. We buckle down to work again. The game is on!

4. John Thaddeus, an Indian, speaks on "Ghandi and Modern India".

5. It is a cold winter day. Ezra Beachy takes his ark out and covers the engine with a blanket. Little boy (looking on) "You needn't cover it up, mister, I saw what it was."

6. The regular students take the lead by welcoming the short termers by way of a Mid-Winter Social. Autos and baby pictures are the evening's triumphs.

11. President Yoder thinks he hears the fire engine as he enters the campus. Who was that vocalizing on third floor?

13. Mrs. Miller's Oral Expression squad makes an excellent showing.

18. Dr. Harry Rimmer addresses a large and very appreciative audience in the chapel.

19. Dr. Blakeslee takes the audience soaring to the stars for the third number of the lecture course.

22. Malik Verda, a native Assyrian, speaks at Vespers on "Flickering Lights of Christianity in Moslem Lands".

23. New literary captains and guards are selected. Teams all set for another season of victories.

24. Students come to grips with six-weeks exams. Students are victorious.

28. The Sophomores invade the haunts of the spooks and eat chili-con-carne to the weird strains of "The Congo". The Freshman class is entertained at the Enss home.

29. The combined choruses sing in Elkhart.

30. Open house at Coffman Hall—just preceded by the "annual" clean-up day.

31. Minister's week program begins with a large number in attendance.

FEBRUARY Historical Hints (History Theme)

3. Harold Burkholder—"They used the old fashioned slate and pencil back in the eighties and nineties."

John Wenger—"Yes, I remember when they used them."

4. Oswin Gerber takes on new duties during his first term of office when he rescues Laura Metzler from third floor porch by using a rope and a ladder. The Christian Life Conference marks another big chapter in the school year.

6. A special report is given in the dining hall. Omar J.'s birthday is announced.

Verna Enns makes a discovery. She lands a position at La Junta.

Carolyn Lehman—"Prof. Enss will you sign my course card, please?"

Prof. Enns—"Well, I see you're my girl this semester. Oh, no, Dean Bender has you in "The Family".

7. Coffman Hall has an annexation. Dr. Edward Yoder comes to live in the fort.

9. The last frontier in weather strikes us. The mercury settles at 20 degrees below zero. Jack Frey, Carl Hostetler and George Smith invade the danger zones and return with red ears.

11. The M. K.'s gain admission in the college union when they organize and go on a bob sled party.

13. Ezra Beachy, contrary to the constitution of the Overland company, slides against the curb and leaves a wheel.

THE MAPLE LEAF

THE MAPLE LEAF

15. Brenneman tries to get some record revenue when he makes an after-chapel sales talk. John Coffman in dining hall—"The next table must be back on the gold standard again." Otto Binkele—"Please explain." John—"Well, it is said, silence is golden."

20. The president of the Auroras mobilizes his troops, and marches to the Annex where they enjoy a formal banquet.

Clemens—"Do you do practice teaching?" Ezra Beachy—"Yes."

Clemens—"Could you teach General Science anything?"

23. Vesperians give dining hall program—Vesper Hour.

Frieda Enss: I wonder why they didn't paint the fountain water color.

MARCH

Sycological Static (Psychology Theme)

1. After a little introspection the Junior-Senior girls basketball team become aware of the fact that they have made their first success of the season.

2. True to instinct, the Goshen Affirmative team beats the Huntington Negative team in the debate.

3. Is it the food-seeking instinct or the gregarious instinct which prompts the Junior class to have their first party?

4. Vera Snyder has an idea. It passes from the subconscious into the conscious stage and as a result Vera and her friends have a waffle party in Dr. Miller's apartment.

6. We presume it is a matter of habit which brings the members of the faculty into the dining hall to enjoy faculty dinner.

11. It is moonlight—the seniors have a party at Miss Shirk's home—Ross sees the moon and not even Dr. Hertzler can analyze his mingled emotions.

13. Through the assimilation of ideas the Vesperians and Adelphians are able to give a public program of varied talent.

15. An opossum family arouse the interest (or latent attention) of both the students and the faculty by spending a rather long day on the campus.

17. The Avons do considerable imagining: the Auroras do plenty of anticipating, but now the St. Patrick's Day party is a matter of recollection.

19. Mr. Jacob Peltz, a converted Jew and an excellent speaker, gives three lectures on "Preaching the Gospel to the Jews first".

22. An overflow of nervous energy is evident at the birthday party given for Ruth Hertzler in the Avon rooms.

26. The A Cappella chorus sings in Elkhart.

28. "Behaviour is purposive." Perhaps the list of students scheduled to call at the dean's office may in part explain the unusual silence in the reading room.

APRIL

Language Scribbles (Language Theme)

Erster April. Was geschieht? Eine Abendgesellschaft. Wo? Zu Hause Virginia Brown's. Wer? Die höchsten Studenten. Und was haben Herr Amstutz und Herr Beachy getan????

Secunda. Chori vespertimum libellum ad methodist templum in Constantine Michigan offerunt. Prelatio jugum castellum Waynem missionem et.

MAY

Filosophical Filterings

1. Joe had it behind, Earle had it before,
Linus never had it, Seniors may have it once,
Juniors may never have it, Orlin Reedy had it twice in the same place. What was it?

4. Seniors put Sneak Day to the pragmatic test.

5. Carl Showalter is one of the eight entrants in the state peace oratorical contest held in the chapel.

7. Bishop D. D. Miller conducts communion service.

11. The students enjoy the aesthetics of the great out-of-doors by way of the May Day outing.

12. The Juniors entertain the Seniors in true American style.

Helen Oesch: "What do you suppose the Avons and Auroras are figuring on since the Vesprians and Adelphians gave their public program?"

Helen Moser: "I don't know. What?"

Helen O.: "Paper, of course!"

14. The choruses sing before a large audience in the Mennonite church at Berne.

19. A number of students leave for Springs, Penna., to attend the Annual Mission Board Meeting.

20. The Northern Indiana Mennonite Literary Convention meets on the campus in the afternoon and evening.

21. Choruses give a program in the Goshen Congregational-Christian church.

31. Final exams. In a final analysis, the students reach a favorable conclusion concerning epistemology (the theory of knowledge).

JUNE

Omega

2. "All's well that ends well—"
And the exams are over!

To breathe the air that Wordsworth knew,
To pattern Shakespeare's "Much Ado"—
The literary societies have their annual joint outings.

3. Not "to a skylark" nor yet "to a nightingale", but to an attentive audience of students and friends the chorus gives their final program.

4. President Yoder gives the Baccalaureate Sermon.

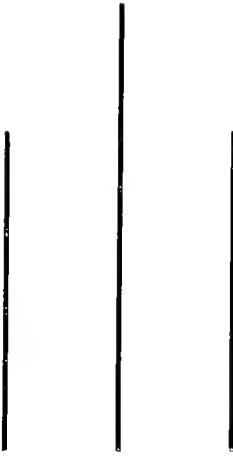

5. "Now is the month of June
Hark to the merry tune
Tra la tra la la la,"
Class outings pass too soon.

6. "Should auld acquaintance be forgot
And never brought to mind—" No!
Literary reunions are well attended.

7. College luncheon.
Commencement.

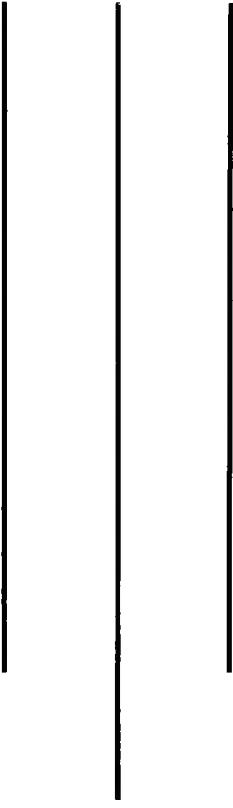

Books will fade as days go by,
But college friendships never die.
